SUPERVISORS MEETING

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors will meet at 9 a.m. today in the Courthouse board room, Main Street, Bay St. Louis.

The board is expected to reconsider location of a minimum security satellite prison at Stennis Field.

PORT AND HARBOR MEETING

The Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission is scheduled to meet with the Hancock County Board of Supervisors and State Senator Gene Taylor at 7:30 p.m. tonight at the commission office, Hwy. 603, Waveland.

The officials are expected to discuss development of the Bayou Cadet harbor.

One arrested in drug raid

By ELLIS CUEVAS

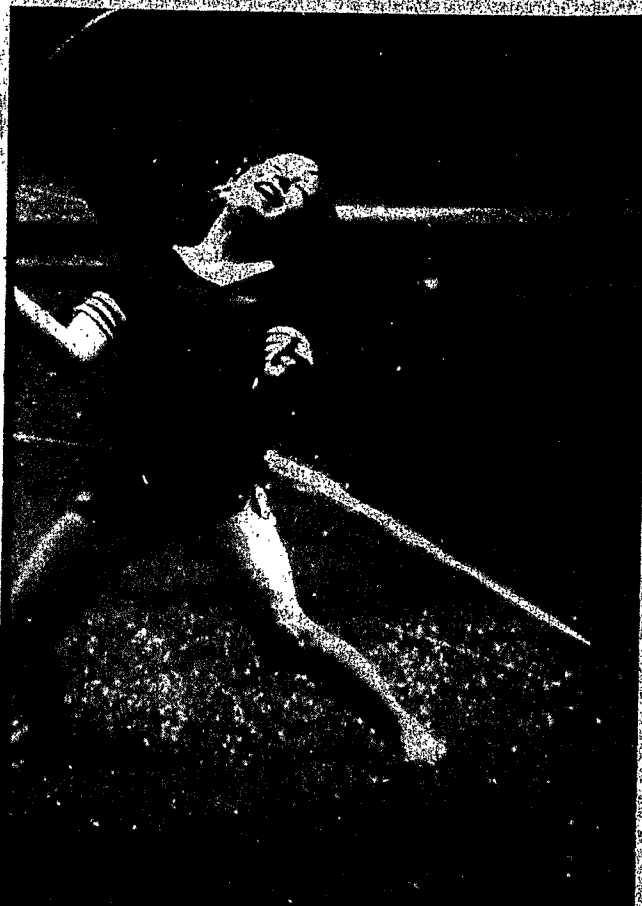

A resident of Aloha Trailer Park was arrested Monday night and charged with possession and intent to sell and distribute marijuana, according to Alvin Ladner, Hancock County sheriff's investigator.

Ladner said, "Rodney Slade, Aloha Trailer Park, Waveland was arrested on Monday night after a search warrant was secured for his mobile home and truck from Horatio Frierson, Justice Court judge. Approximately five pounds of marijuana was found in the mobile home and trailer."

The truck was confiscated because most of the marijuana was in it. Ronald Peterson, Hancock County sheriff, stated Ladner indicated the marijuana was of high grade quality.

Slade was released from the Hancock County jail after posting a $5,000 bond.

Those involved in the arrest included Peterson, Ladner, Hancock deputies Glen Strong, David Garcia, Matt Karl, and Robert (Poggy) Tartavouille, Waveland investigator.

BITES OF SUMMER—Andrew Lazzara, 10, of Waveland, son of Ann Clark Lazzara, is unaware he is being stalked from across the street by a photographer with a telephoto lens as he frolics under the lawn sprinkler at his mother's law office on Court Street in Bay St. Louis on a recent hot summer afternoon. Andrew is ecstatic as he indulges in this classic method of beating the heat. He will be in sixth grade at Coast Elementary School in September. (Echo staff photo by Edgar Perez)

INVENTORYING MARIJUANA—Alvin Ladner, Hancock County sheriff's investigator, inventories approximately five pounds of marijuana found in a mobile home and truck on Monday night. Ladner said Rodney Slade, Aloha Trailer Park, Waveland was arrested and charged for alleged possession and intent to sell marijuana. (Staff photo by Ellis Cuevas)

Spiers told to mask junk

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT

Hayward Spiers told Chancery Judge William Stewart Tuesday he will mask junk at his business establishment so it is not visible from US-90.

Spiers, who owns and operates Hayward Spiers and Sons Auto Salvage and Body Shop on US-90 West near the Bayou Phillips community, was ordered to clean up an automobile graveyard in August, 1980 after the Mississippi State Highway Commission complained he had violated provisions of the state's Junkyard Control Law.

Since that time, the commission, represented by Bay St. Louis Attorney Michael D. Haas, has complained that Spiers has not complied with the conditions of the decree entered against him and has accumulated further violations.

Tuesday Haas and Spiers asked Stewart to clarify conditions of the decree.

"Under the law," Haas noted, "anything visible from US-90 is illegal." "But Spiers takes the position that while he is undergoing construction of some phases of his junkyard, he has a right to violate that provision," Haas said.

"We take the position he is not."

"The question is one of reasonableness," Stewart commented. "It was a matter of two to three days that no problem."

"It was a matter of three months, that's a reasonable period of time," Haas said. "It was a matter of three months that no problem."

Army Ammunition Plant employee charged in 1976 Texas murder

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT

Mason Chamberlain Inc. employee was arrested yesterday at the Army Ammunition Plant on murder charges stemming from a 1976 shooting in Texas.

Hancock County Sheriff Ronald Peterson said Edward Thomas Sparks III, 34, who gave his address as 110 Whitfield Street in Picayune, would be held in the Hancock County jail Wednesday night under no bond and would probably be transferred back to Texas Thursday.

Sparks was arrested about 10:30 a.m. Wednesday morning by sheriff's department officials, Mississippi Highway Patrol investigators and Texas authorities, including Texas Ranger Joe Coleman and Winkler County Chief Deputy Sheriff Harvey Glenn.

Sparks is charged with one count of capital murder in the death of John Eldon Sanford of Kermit, Tex. on March 21, 1976.

He was indicted by a Winkler County grand jury on May 7, 1984, Coleman said.

Peterson said his office received information about the case Friday, waited until Texas authorities arrived Wednesday, then assisted in Sparks' arrest.

According to Peterson, Sparks is originally from Baytown, Tex. and has worked for MCI approximately 2-1/2 years.

So far as Peterson knows, Sparks has no relatives in Hancock County.

"As far as details of the investigations are concerned, we're not at liberty to disclose them at this time," Glenn said.

"There are other standing indictments and we expect other arrests in Texas."

"We're impressed with the law enforcement officials here," he added.

"They went out of their way to assist us."

Martha Brewer of the Winkler County News reported Sanford, 46 at the time of his death, was a tool-pusher for a Houston offshore drilling company.

He had lived in Kermit for 18 years, she said.

According to Brewer's report of newspaper accounts at the time of the incident, Sanford was driving a CB-equipped pickup truck on March 21 and went to Owen Carter Horse Pens about three miles west of Kermit to sell some horses.

He was shot at least four times shortly before midnight.

He had about $500 in his possession which was later reported missing, she said.

Brewer said Winkler County News Publisher Bill Beckham had mentioned during the past six months that investigators were pursuing further leads in the eight-year-old case.

Bay High property sold for apartment driveway

By DENA BISNETTE

The Bay St. Louis School District Board of Trustees has agreed to sell a strip of property bordering the west side of the school building to a group building an apartment complex.

According to board attorney Lucien Gex, the property consists of a strip measuring 229 feet long by 37 feet wide and will be purchased by South Bay Builders for $5,000. It will be used to construct a driveway.

However, the board agreed at its Monday night meeting to sell the property only if the buyers improve it by adding a chainlink fence and a drainage ditch.

The price was negotiated to $5,000 because the board felt the original bid, $2,750, was too low. It was the only bid received.

Gex said the board will enter a quitclaim deed on the property when the requested improvements have been made.

In other business, the board accepted resignations from seven teachers, including Carolyn McCoy, Gail Carr, Nancy Hode, Catherine Evans, Phillip Brandon, Maryanne Horn and Elizabeth Magee.

The board also approved the addition of a faculty member, Barbara Blakely, for the special education department.

Several teacher assistants were also hired, including Patricia Baxter, Sally Erickson, Cynthia Gegenheimer, Connie Gonzales, Beryl Kidd, Beverly Ladner, Darlene Trudell, Virginia Turcotte, Christine Zimmerman, Janet Scianina, Phyllis Seuzeneau, Carolyn Lamm, and Linda Bilbo.

In financial matters, the board approved the amendment of its 1983-84 budget to $3,738,348 from an original figure of $3,713,663.

Also approved was a Chapter I funded project for the 1984-85 school year. The total budget for the project, $278,262, includes $30,038 in Chapter I funding carried over from the previous school year.

A bid of $1950.10 from Bus Supply of McComb was accepted for the repair of school bus seats damaged during the 1983-84 school year.

In addition, the board gave approval for the use of the Bay Junior High auditorium by Gulf Coast Regional Planning Commission for a meeting on June 28 and by a private citizen for a dance rehearsal and recital June 15 and 16. The board also approved the use of Tiger Stadium by a group of citizens for an anti-abortion rally June 19.

Supervisor smoldering over landfill fire

By DENA BISNETTE

A gate installed several months ago has apparently reduced the number of fires at the Hancock County Landfill but has not eliminated them.

The garbage at the landfill was on fire Monday morning when landfill employees reported to work.

By Wednesday afternoon, the flames were gone but the garbage was still smoldering and a cloud of smoke covered the area. "They'll probably just have to let it burn until it's where we can get down there to it," landfill employee Lesli Dedeaux said.

According to landfill foreman Paul Ladner, the board of supervisors sent some equipment to fight the fire Monday but nothing could be done because the flames had spread over the entire garbage pile.

Sam Pernicaro, the supervisor in charge of the landfill, said Monday's fire was the first at the landfill since the gate was installed about seven months ago.

Mid-East war hinders U.S. efforts to study Persian Gulf oil spills

The efforts of a four-man federal research team, including personnel from NASA, agencies, which recently studied water circulation in the Persian Gulf as part of a project to help forecast oil spill movements, were both enhanced and hindered by the fact that the area is currently subjected to intense military activity.

Members of the team were Bob Plante, John Beach and Bob Arnone of the Naval Ocean Research and Development Activity, Naval Air Station, San Diego, Calif., and a scientist from the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA), Data Buoy Center, Seattle who is is pumped and shipped through the Persian Gulf (also known as the Arabian Gulf), oil spills and leaks have long been a problem. Between 1965 and 1978, for example, Kuwait recorded more than 100 spills.

Recently, the Iraq-Iran War added to the problem. In March of 1980, Iraq destroyed an Iranian oil rig in the north end of the Gulf, and a few weeks later more rigs in this area were destroyed.

The initial amounts of oil entering the Gulf from these attacks were estimated at 2,000 barrels a day, but may have reached 1,000 barrels a day as damaged rigs melted down and the oil-consuming fires went out.

Most of the oil trapped in the Gulf, which covers 3.6 million sq. miles and extends 800 miles from the Persian Gulf to the Red Sea, is trapped in the Persian Gulf.

The southern end of the Gulf ends in a narrow strait which opens into the Arabian Sea. The strait is about 20 miles wide and is the only place where oil can escape from the Gulf.

The oil ends up on the beaches of one of the six countries that border the Gulf. Iran occupies the entire northeastern shore; Iraq has a 80 km frontage at the northern end; the southwest (Arabian) side is divided among Kuwait, Saudi Arabia, Qatar and the United Arab Emirates.

Properly drawn wills assure proper distribution

Almost everyone intends to make a will before they die, but court records show that only about half of us really do.

Perhaps one reason is because most people don't clearly understand exactly what a will is and what it contains.

A will is a legal document by which a person disposes of property, to take effect at death. It is the best way to assure that property will be distributed exactly as desired.

A properly drawn will greatly simplifies the distribution of an estate. It not only hastens settlement for the heirs but often avoids financial and legal tangles.

If a person dies without leaving a will, that person is said to die "intestate." The estate is then administered according to laws of the state in which the person has legal residence or of another state in which the property is located.

Without a will, the law will state who will inherit the property. The law will, in effect, provide a substitute for a will—one which may or may not satisfy the wishes of the deceased.

There are five major sections of a will. Each section has its own distinct purpose.

The opening recitation tells who the person is and gives the place of residence. It may (1) state that the individual is of sound mind and competent to make a will (although saying it does not prove it to be so), (2) revoke all previous wills, (3) direct that all just debts and funeral expenses be paid and (4) give instructions as to burial. This latter feature, however, is better done in a separate letter of instruction rather than in a will, since the will may not be opened until after the funeral.

The dispositive clauses are the heart of the will. They indicate who is to get what.

The administrative clauses set up the machinery for carrying out all of the person's instructions. Here, the postmortem agents—executors, guardians, etc.—are named.

The testimonium clause ends the will and says that, in approval of the foregoing, the person is signing. The will should not be signed, however, until witnesses are present.

The attestation clause is the clause for witnesses, so that a record will exist reciting the circumstances under which the signing of the will was witnessed and by whom.

Most principals say students need more computers

Computers will help students learn, but there aren't enough of them in America's secondary schools, according to a poll of 100 randomly-selected members of the National Association of Secondary School Principals (NASSP), the nation's largest school administrator group.

Survey results were reported in the first issue of SchoolTechNews, published by the Education News Service in California. Editor George Neill said his newsletter is the "only publication specializing in education technology that is edited exclusively for principals in the nation's middle-level and high schools."

Eighty-two percent of the principals believe computer assisted instruction improves learning, while seven percent reported that it does not. Eleven percent indicated that they did not know what the impact was.

"Perhaps revealing one of the most important reasons for the computer's success in the classroom, many principals echoed the words of one colleague, who said: 'Kids are turned on to computers,'" wrote Neill.

While principals believe computers are a "key" to improving learning, they think schools can take better advantage of that tool.

Seventy-four percent indicated they would have to increase the number of computers in their school by more than 100 percent "to allow students to use them to maximum advantage." Eleven percent reported that their school would have to increase the number of computers by 1,000 percent or more.

Almost half of the respondents (46 percent) reported that only 10 percent or fewer students have weekly "hands-on" experience with computers in their schools. Thirteen percent said that 31-50 percent of the students work with computers weekly.

Neill reported that a small minority of the principals believes the "impact of computers on schools is being exaggerated and that they will have little significance to education."

Thomas L. Collice, principal, Sunrise Middle School, Scottsdale, Ariz., however, predicted, "Computers will be as common as blackboards."

The survey included a "representative sample of NASSP members with respondents coming from urban, suburban, and rural areas," according to Neill.

A special showing of the film "Jesus Is Victor" is scheduled Sunday, June 24 at the First United Methodist Church, 526 East Second Street, Pass Christian.

The showing, open to the public free of charge, will begin at 4 p.m. and will be followed by an ice cream and cake social with indoor and outdoor games.

"Jesus Is Victor" is a personal and intimate portrait of Corrie ten Boom, a Dutch Christian who, until she was silenced by a stroke in 1976 at the age of 86, traveled the globe telling of her experiences in Nazi-occupied Holland during World War II.

She and her family were responsible for saving the lives of hundreds of Jews through their work with the underground.

Miss ten Boom's experiences have been related in a number of best-selling books, as well as through World Wide's award-winning theatrical release, "The Hiding Place."

"Jesus Is Victor" gives the viewer an opportunity to meet Corrie face-to-face, to travel with her through 35 years of ministry in some 65 countries around the world, to discover the qualities of faith and courage that have made her a respected and beloved servant of God.

This film represents Corrie ten Boom's final appearance before a camera—just prior to her severe illness. Executive Producer William F. Brown describes Corrie ten Boom as "a beautiful example of how God's love can give us the courage to face even life's most difficult situations, and come out victorious."

The film features Jeannette Clift, who starred as Corrie in "The Hiding Place."

Cliff Barrows of the Billy Graham Crusade Team, who has been a personal friend of Corrie's for several years also appears in the film.

The members of First United Methodist Church in Pass Christian extend an invitation to all to attend this special showing and to stay afterwards for homemade ice cream and cake.

Quotables by Cuevas

Plans are underway for a Hancock County Chamber of Commerce Flea Market to be held June 30 and July 1.

The event will be held on the parking lot of ABC Rental, US-90, Bay St. Louis.

Several items are already on hand for the sale according to Sheryn Bréland, chairman for the sale.

There is a need for many more things to be sold at this Flea Market. If you have an item which you have gotten tired of owning, it would be a big help if you would drop it off by the chamber's office.

Clarice Gustin, chamber executive director, reports if you are unable to bring it to the chamber office, just give them a call at 467-9048 and someone will pick them up.

The pricing group are scheduled to start working on June 20, so by the June 30 all items will be ready for the sale.

We may consider an item as junk, and another person as a treasure, so if you look around your home or office, you may find many items of no value to you anymore.

So the chamber needs your 'junk,' and will appreciate it very much.

Chester Curvey of Waveland stopped by Tuesday morning to tell us about a dog rescue he made earlier that morning.

He said he was riding his bicycle down Beach Boulevard and something told him to go a little further than he normally did each morning.

As he came to a section of the road where the sand was washed from the shore by Buccaneer State Park, he heard a splash.

Curvey investigated, and saw a large red haired dog looking up at him, trying to keep his head above the water.

The animal first appeared to have had a broken leg, but when Curvey got him on the seawall, he realized the animal had a foot through his collar.

The nearly drowned and exhausted animal just lay on the concrete for several minutes before he staggered to his feet.

Curvey suspected the animal was trying to jump up on the seawall when his foot became entangled in his collar.

It appeared to him the animal would have surely drowned if he would have been in the water much longer.

Curvey still doesn't know what made him travel the extra distance—something just told him to do it.

Pass Christian graduate receives scholarships

Roslynn Webb, a 1984 graduate of Pass Christian High School, has recently been awarded several academic scholarships.

She is the recipient of a full scholarship at Alcorn University, a four-year scholarship at Jackson State University, a $8,000 packet from Millsaps College and a $450 one-year scholarship at Mississippi Gulf Coast Junior College, Jefferson Davis Campus.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Webb, she is a Superintendent's Honor Roll student and served as secretary of the Beta Club. She was a band member for four years and won the first chair award her sophomore year. She is a Children's International Summer Village member and was the Mississippi representative to its international convention.

In addition, she belongs to Future Homemakers of America, Drama, French and Science Clubs. She was president of the Drama and Science Clubs and vice-president of the French Club.

She served on the Student Council for two years and was vice-president her senior year.

Webb has received awards for highest academic achievement in Basic Foods and Family Living. She was a Homecoming Maid for three years and was selected Most Talented in the Who's Who contest.

In her junior year she attended the Governor's School, was selected as a Black Achiever of Mississippi, was selected Student of the Month, and placed third in the Voice of Democracy competition.

She has been selected to Who's Who Among American High School Students and The Society of Distinguished American High School

Students. She recently received the President's First Academic Fitness Award and was selected to the Hall of Fame.

Webb plans to enter Millsaps College in the fall to pursue a pre-med curriculum with a major in biology.

back there but we thought it was over when we put the gate up. We used to have fires out there all the time," he said.

The fire discovered Monday was apparently set either Sunday night or early Monday morning by someone who climbed the locked gate and walked down to the area where garbage is dumped.

Perniclaro said the county plans to prosecute the individual if he can be found, as well as anyone else caught setting fires in the landfill. Fires are illegal there because the state Bureau of Pollution Control forbids the burning of garbage.

The county may have an additional reason—a second fire—to seek legal action against the individual who started the landfill blaze.

According to Perniclaro, a second fire was reported in the woods near the landfill and had to be extinguished by forestry personnel. While he does not believe the woods fire resulted from sparks from the landfill fire because winds have been light since Monday, he said he believes both blazes may have been set by the same person.

"This endangered county equipment," the supervisor said. He explained that the cost of replacing equipment could have been as high as $100,000 for a single bulldozer if any of the machines kept at the landfill had been damaged.

"We keep trying to catch whoever does it, and I guarantee that they'll pay for it when we do," he added.

Mississippian named World's Fair official

William Hackett, executive director of the Mississippi Department of Economic Development, has confirmed that DED's Tourism Director George Williams has been granted a leave of absence to become marketing director for the Louisiana World Exposition in New Orleans.

The non-paid leave begins immediately and expires no later than December 31, Hackett said Monday.

Hackett, who also serves as chairman of the Mississippi World's Fair Council, Inc., said that in the new post, Williams will continue to be an asset to Mississippi's World's Fair efforts.

"I fully expect to see George Williams carry on a successful marketing program for the fair and that, of course, will directly benefit Mississippi," said Hackett.

"With a stronger marketing effort for the fair, I think we will see more travelers through Mississippi and more visitors to the Mississippi Pavilion."

Hackett also noted that Williams' experience as LWE marketing director will be of tremendous benefit when he returns to Mississippi as state travel director.

The leave of absence will hamper neither the activities of the Division of Tourism nor the Mississippi World's Fair effort, Hackett said.

"I believe the Tourism staff will carry on their activities with characteristic professionalism."

"I am also confident that the Mississippi World's Fair program, which is now in place and fully operational, will continue operating in a successful manner."

Witch doctor secrets hold key to many new medicines

Operating on the well-founded belief that "witch doctors" rely as much on the healing powers of native plants as on mystical powers, scientists are rushing to unlock the secrets of these fabled healers before their primitive cultures disappear.

The demise of witch doctors in the face of expanding civilizations is tragic, scientists say, because they have vast knowledge of the healing properties of plants which may, in turn, hold the key to the development of new medicines.

There is another problem. According to an article in the current issues of 'International Wildlife,' deforestation of jungles and other forested areas is depleting plant species on which the witch doctors rely for their healing potions.

Native people have made significant contributions to medicine. Many of the "wonder drugs" of the 1930s and 1960s, such as digitalis for heart failure, reserpine for tranquilizers and vincristine for treating leukemia, were derived from plants that native peoples had used for centuries.

Anthropologists and botanists are intensely studying the remaining witch doctors among Amazonian Indians, African nomads and other primitive peoples before their folklore and healing traditions are lost forever, reports 'International Wildlife.'

Their study has evolved into a new science—"ethnobotany"—which is dedicated to promoting the most promising finds of witch doctor secrets.

Ethnobotany was largely created by Harvard botanist Richard Evans Schultes. During a 1941-54 stay in the Amazon, Schultes collected 24,000 plants, 5,000 of which he expects to one day prove beneficial to man, according to 'International Wildlife.'

"The Indians use 1,370 of these plants in some way, so that indicates that they have at least one active principal," said Schultes. "The Indians are actually quite sophisticated in their analysis of what works and what does not. They basically use the trial-and-error method and will combine different plants to produce a desired result."

A group of ethnobotanists dedicated to promoting their most promising finds is currently studying a plant root the Aztecs used as a dental anesthetic, bark used as an arthritis treatment, tree sap that stimulates wound healing and helps peptic ulcers, and a mushroom that seems to stimulate the body's immune system.

The most critical problem facing the scientists is the race to learn as much as they can before the witch doctors and their habitat disappear. "The entire plant kingdom is really a chemical factory," said Schultes. "If we destroy the rain forests and lose these plants to extinction before we can analyze them for active principals, we may be missing out on a number of great remedies."

Legal secretaries install officers

Members of the Harrison and Hancock Counties Legal Secretaries Association attended the Mississippi Association of Legal Secretaries' 22nd Annual Convention in Jackson on May 18, 19 and 20.

Those attending from Harrison-Hancock were President Billie Ruddick, Vice President Christy Freeman, Secretary Sue Huffman, Treasurer Roberta Burleson, Governor Ilyne Stewart, Parliamentarian Gini Myers, PLS, Henrietta Caransa; all from Harrison County, and Linda Penrose, Public Relations and Immediate Past President of Hancock County.

A seminar on motivation was conducted Friday under the direction of Denise Faucett of Gulfport, state seminar chairman.

Some 70 members attended the convention at the Sheraton Regency where meetings were held for the Board of Governors, delegates and the annual meeting, hosted by Jackson LSA.

Ruddick was elected second vice president of the state association, and Gini Myers, also of Harrison-Hancock, was elected as national director to represent Mississippi.

Coast members appointed by state chairmanships are Sue Huffman, legal education; Linda Penrose, legal secretary of the year; Ilyne Stewart (immediate past president of MALS) as parliamentarian; Christy Freeman PLS chairman; and Denise Faucett, seminar chairman.

In the "Big Sister" program Myers was appointed to serve Bolivar and Jones Counties, and to coordinate the work of the state association in those areas.

Judy Taylor of Jackson, president; Patricia Hook, PLS, of Jackson, first vice president; Billie Ruddick of Harrison-Hancock, second vice president; Jamie Roddey, PLS, of Jones County secretary; Sarah Brannon of Hattiesburg, treasurer; and Gini Myers, PLS, of Harrison-Hancock, national director.

J.D. Taylor served as installing marshal.

Harrison-Hancock LSA received a second place ribbon and $10 award for their History Book, and a second place ribbon and $10 award for their monthly bulletin in contests sponsored by the state association.

Harrison-Hancock also won its bid for the state association's Fall Board Meeting to be held in Gulfport at the Holiday Inn Beachfront on Sept. 15 and 16.

The next regular monthly meeting of the association will be Thursday, June 14, 8:30 p.m., at the Western Sizzlin' Steakhouse, Courthouse Road, Gulfport.

State public safety commissioner asks unified enforcement effort

All violator citations and all accident report forms issued by law enforcement agencies in Mississippi will be standardized beginning July 1 and Jan. 1, respectively.

"This is of monumental importance to law enforcement agencies as well as to the state's 1.7 million licensed drivers," James L. Roberts Jr., commissioner of public safety, told a group of sheriffs meeting Wednesday in Biloxi.

"You should benefit greatly from the requirement to submit to the Department of Public Safety a standard accident report form because you will be able to use data generated by the forms to substantiate requests for additional funding from boards of supervisors to hire additional people or obtain equipment," he said.

Roberts told members of the Mississippi Sheriff's Association that "These standardized forms will also make it much easier for citizens to deal with law enforcement agencies at all levels."

"Currently, citizens and their lawyers don't know what they might encounter from one jurisdiction to the next. Local jurisdiction develop and issue their own individual citations. This has caused violators and judges to deal with several different kinds of documents," he continued.

"At last count, the Department of Public Safety was handling 48 different kinds of accident reports from around the State of Mississippi. The confusion that this has caused has led to injustice in some cases and to a general disrespect for all law enforcement officers by those who have to deal with various types of forms," Roberts told the group.

"Another way the standardized accident report form will benefit you is it will allow a simplified training program for accident investigation instruction. It means all deputies and other law enforcement officers in all counties will have precise idea of what kind of information they need to obtain at a traffic accident investigation," Roberts added.

The amendments requiring the use of uniform citations and accident report forms were passed by the 1984 Legislature.

Nearing the end of his fifth month as commissioner of public safety, Roberts told the sheriffs, "Cooperation and communication between our agencies is badly needed if we are to do our jobs. I solicit your input on what is needed to establish a closer working relationship between your offices and mine...we are here to assist you."

Roberts offered the services of the Department of Public Safety and its components, the Mississippi Crime Lab, the Bureau of Narcotics, the Mississippi Law Enforcement Officers' Training Academy and its most visible arm, the Mississippi Highway Patrol to aid the sheriffs in their work.

"Anytime we can identify solutions that are mutually advantageous and beneficial, we should put forth a united, well-coordinated effort to install them," he said.

"As a member of the board of Minimum Standards Training and as the government official in Mississippi responsible for the operation of the Mississippi Law Enforcement Officers' Training Academy, I will do all I can to insure that the professional standards program in this state is responsive to your needs and is continuously being reviewed for improvements," the commissioner said.

"Professional law enforcement training is not punishment. It is not optional. It is something we must live with. Professional training is a requirement demanded by society. It is not something we can take lightly," the 38-year-old Roberts added.

The two-day meeting of the Mississippi Sheriff's Association was conducted at the Biloxi Hilton.

DAVID A. TREUTEL JR., vice president of Treutel Insurance Agency, Inc. of Bay St. Louis, has received a certificate in property and casualty insurance upon graduation from the INA/Aetna School for Agents. Treutel completed the three-week training course at the conference center at Eagle Lodge, the companies' education and conference facility located in Lafayette Hills, Pa. ## Communities may earn citation as 'Tree City'

Tree City USA application brochures are now available free of charge from the National Arbor Day Foundation.

Tree City USA, which is sponsored by the National Arbor Day Foundation and the State Foresters, provide guidelines and recognition for community forestry programs.

"In the typical town or city, half of the trees are on public property, along streets, in parks and around public buildings," John Rosenow, the foundation's executive director, said.

"Through participation in Tree City USA a community can insure that these trees are properly planted and maintained."

To become a Tree City USA a community must meet four standards: a legally constituted tree board or department; a city tree ordinance; a comprehensive community forestry program supported by at least $1 per capita; and an Arbor Day observance.

Communities achieving Tree City USA receive a walnut plaque, a Tree City USA flag and community entrance road signs.

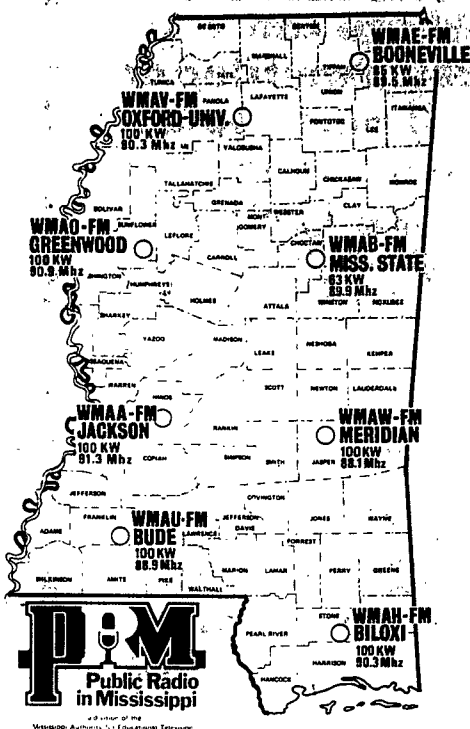

The Tree City USA application brochure contains the following information: 1) a description of the four Tree City USA standards; 2) a sample city tree ordinance; 3) an outline of a basic community forestry program; 4) sources of technical urban forestry assistance; 5) illustrations of the Tree City USA flag, sign and plaque; and 6) a Tree City USA application form.

To obtain this free brochure, interested people should send their name and address to Tree City USA, National Arbor Day Foundation, 100 Arbor Avenue, Nebraska City, Neb. 68410.

Mississippi Public Radio plans network completion by mid-summer

Public Radio in Mississippi (PRM), the eight-station statewide public radio network under the Mississippi Authority for Educational Television (MAET), will be in full operation by mid-summer, weather permitting according to Linda Carr Flentje, director of radio.

"Seven of our stations are now in full broadcast schedule with only the Jackson station remaining to go on-air. It is pending the completion of our transmitting tower in southwest Jackson and installation of broadcast equipment at the Jackson studios," Flentje said.

PRM sites, located at Bude, 88.9 Mhz; Biloxi, 90.3 Mhz; Meridian, 88.1 Mhz; Mississippi State, 89.9 Mhz; Oxford, 90.3 Mhz; and Booneville, 89.5 Mhz, are receiving programming via microwave from temporary studios in Jackson.

According to Flentje, over 3,000 listener responses have been received to date.

"All comments indicate that our programming is indeed serving as a listening alternative and is right on target. Program Guide requests will be filled within the next four weeks so that our listeners will then have a complete schedule for our 128-hour weekly broadcasts."

Public Radio in Mississippi was established by an act of the Mississippi legislature and is a division of the Mississippi Authority for ETV (MAET).

Programming will be a combination of the nationally recognized National Public Radio offerings, plus syndicated programs as well as locally produced segments by the PRM staff.

Approximately 70 percent of the non-commercial radio network's format will consist of classical and performance programming, including Saturday afternoon Metropolitan Opera performances.

Secondarily, the schedule will be devoted to public affairs programming with the remainder comprised of jazz and radio drama.

"The statewide interest generated from this project is probably the most enthusiastic I have seen in my years of public radio. PRM is a medium which all Mississippians can grasp 18 hours a day, 7 days a week, anytime, anywhere," Flentje said.

Bynum, Irby named to Lott aide posts

Congressman Trent Lott, R-Miss., has announced the appointment of James L. (Buddy) Bynum as his administrative assistant.

Bynum, 31, succeeds long-time aide Tom H. Anderson Jr. of Gulfport who was nominated by the President and confirmed by the U.S. Senate as the United States Ambassador to Barbados and seven other Caribbean nations.

Lott also announced he has named Susan E. Irby of Long Beach to the position of press secretary, a post held by Bynum for the last seven years.

Prior to joining Lott's staff in Washington in 1977, Bynum covered government and politics for daily newspapers on the Gulf Coast, Meridian and Jackson.

Irby has served in Lott's Washington office for the past five years as his legislative aide and as an assistant to the Congressman in his capacity as the Republican Whip of the House of Representatives.

In Mississippi, she covered local governments and federal and local law enforcement agencies as a reporter for the Sea Coast Echo in Bay St. Louis, The Daily Herald on the Gulf Coast and the Hattiesburg American.

COLORFUL COSTUMES—Gloria Garcia, Maribel Barsilo and Anna Bott—daughter and grand-niece of Anna—are modeling native Panamanian costumes. Gloria is wearing a montuno, an every-day costume of linen with detailed applique blouse and printed cotton skirt. Maribel is wearing a festival or party costume of white linen with blue cross-stitched flowers. An undershirt of handmade lace and linen is revealed when the wearer dances. The five beaded combs Maribel is wearing are currently worn for Mardi Gras celebrations. These costumes and combs, 100 years ago, were worn only for special occasions. Anna is modeling a brightly colored smock handmade by the Gualmi Indians of Panama.

PANAMANIAN DISHES—Maria Bott, two unidentified participants, Jo Gadipon, Audrey Dean and Jim Bott of Diamondhead, representing Panama, chat as they serve food from that country.

JUST VISITING—Becky Hinley and Alvis Gullory enjoy treats from Italy and talk with Allie Cospelich, Roslyn Weathers and Helen Pahlman of the Crafty Extension Homemaker Club.

DOWN HOME

by DARLENE UNDERWOOD
Hancock County Extension Home Economist

The Hancock County Extension Homemakers held their first International Tasters Tea May 9 at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Bay St. Louis. Proceeds from the event will be used for the Mississippi Extension Homemakers International Project "Food For The Hungry."

ITALIAN TABLE—Helen Pahlman and Marguerite Fayard of Waveland, representing Italy, are members of the Crafty Extension Homemakers Club. Mrs. Pahlman's daughter lives in Italy and most of the artifacts at this booth were gathered on numerous trips to that country.

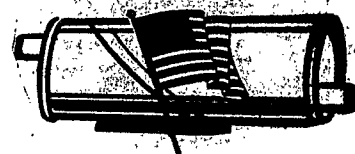

Local citizens and students attended the educational event in which Mexico, Italy, Japan and Panama were represented.

Homemakers Clubs chose the country they wanted to depict. Club members spent weeks borrowing or gathering artifacts and costumes to display and wear. Hundreds of cookies and casseroles for tasting had to be made to serve guests.

Information about each country was researched by club members and printed information sheets were available at each booth.

A cookbook with recipes for foods served that day was sold for 50 cents. Copies are still available from the County Extension Office, 405 Necaise Ave., Bay St. Louis.

Fine spring weather and youthful exuberance combined for a healthy day of physical activity at Bay Catholic Elementary School's recent Field Day.

After a prayer by Rev. Bernard Keller, the entire student body participated in an aerobic exercise dance led by the sixth grade girls.

Following the presentation of a class cheer by each class, 175 youngsters spilled out over the field to compete in a variety of events, including 50-yard dash, baseball throw, obstacle course, soccer dribbling, running broadjump, sack races, basketball throw and horseshoe pitching.

Cheers were repeated spontaneously throughout the day by enthusiastic youngsters spurring their teammates, and boys and girls whose energy could not wait for a scheduled event took part in somersaults, headstands and individual races.

At the end of the day ribbons were given out for first, second and third places in all events.

Others received participation ribbons.

Class spirit pennants were given out to three classes—sixth grade, third grade and first grade—for excellent sportsmanship and good behavior throughout the day.

UM BASKETBALL SCHOOL
Ole Miss Rebel Basketball Coach Lee Hunt's 1984 Boys Basketball School will stress offensive and defensive fundamentals involving shooting, passing, dribbling, rebounding and defense.

Boys ages 10 through 1985 high school seniors are eligible to attend either of two schools. The first will be from June 17-22, and the second will be June 24-29. Both camps will be coordinated by the university's Division of Continuing Education.

According to Coach Hunt, instruction is designed to help the individual to learn how to play as a member of his team, and three-on-three and skill competitions will be featured.

A special feature of both camps will include the videotaping of each participant and a helpful critique of his play. Boys will be divided into groups according to age, size and ability, and instruction will be provided by the Ole Miss Rebels Basketball coaching staff and other qualified college and high school coaches.

Registration fee is $180 for each participant, and includes housing in an air-conditioned dormitory, the cost of instruction, meals and accident insurance.

Further information may be obtained by writing or calling the Division of Continuing Education, The University of Mississippi, University, MS 38677; telephone (601) 232-7282.

UM SOCCER CAMP
The first Ole Miss Soccer Camp for boys and girls ages 10-17 will feature instruction keyed to smart, aggressive play.

Set June 17-22 on the Oxford campus of The University of Mississippi, the soccer camp will provide instruction by the Ole Miss soccer staff, with use of the excellent sports facilities on the Ole Miss campus.

Each player will be offered instruction in the fundamental skills of kicking, tackling, trapping, heading and throwing. Player position, offensive and defensive strategy and rules of play will also be emphasized.

Dr. Eugene Anderson, an Ole Miss soccer instructor, will serve as camp director. Staff of the university's Health, Physical Education and Recreation Department will also provide instruction, along with collegiate players and high school coaches.

Registration fee for resident campers is $175 and $125 for day campers. Participants will be housed in separate dormitories for boys and girls and will be supervised 24 hours a day by experienced adult personnel.

All meals will be served in the University Cafeteria. Cost of meals is included in the registration fee for resident campers with lunch only for day campers.

Registration form with full fee of $50 deposit must be postmarked no later than June 11. Further information about the camp and registration forms may be obtained by writing or calling the Division of Continuing Education, The University of Mississippi, University, MS 38677; telephone (601) 232-7282.

BASKETBALL
A new basketball camp, known as the Pride of Mississippi Basketball Camp, has been scheduled for July 1-6 at Hinds Junior College in Raymond, Miss.

Sports Brief

SOCCER CAMP

The University of Southern Mississippi will hold its annual Classic Soccer Camp for boys and girls aged seven to 17 June 24-29.

The camp is centered around the individual and each player in attendance will be exposed to the latest and most modern training techniques available. Players will be divided into groups according to age and ability to ensure the greatest individual progress.

The staff-camper ratio is designed to maximize individual and team instruction. For more information call the USM Intramural-Recreation Department at 266-5405.

OUTDOOR SAFETY

The Harrison County 4-H, in cooperation with the Department of Wildlife Conservation, will be conducting a Hunter Safety Instructor's Course.

This course will be offered on June 28 at the Extension Service Office, 2315 17th Street, Gulfport.

In addition, Harrison County 4-H will offer a Boat and Water Safety Course beginning June 25.

Call 863-6941 to pre-register and for additional details on both courses.

A Young Hunters Advanced Training Camp will be held at the University of Southern Mississippi July 8-12.

The camp will train and educate young people in safety skills and the knowledge and skills of hunting.

Featured instructors will be J. Wayne Fears, nationally known outdoor writer, wildlife biologist and outdoor instructor, and Preston Pittman, veteran hunter and holder of many turkey calling championships including National Champion (three times) and Champion of Champions (four times).

The camp, directed by Sylvia Williams, marks the beginning of a new program for high school girls in Mississippi.

Featuring a staff of outstanding Mississippi high school coaches who conduct intense training in fundamentals of the game, the camp also offers a unique opportunity for contact with several major Mississippi college coaches.

Open to girls who will be in grades 10-12 during the 1984-85 school year, the scheduled activities each day will include two scrimmage games, individual competitions, lectures by college and university coaches, as well as two fundamentals sessions. The camper-coach ratio for the week will not exceed 10 to 1.

Williams, a 14-year veteran of high school coaching in Mississippi, has been featured as a Mississippi Association of Coaches All-Star coach, a speaker on girls' basketball at the National Association of High School Coaches convention, and has posted eleven winning seasons as a high school coach.

The deadline for accepting camp applications is June 25. For more information, contact the Pride of Mississippi Basketball Camp, 428 McDowell Park Circle, Jackson, Miss. 39204, or call (601) 372-0545.

CASTIN' ABOUT WALK THE DOG FOR BASS

One bass fishing technique that every angler ought to know is called "walking the dog" with topwater baits.

The type of lure that is used for this is a "stick bait" such as the Mann-Dancer, a floating, cigar-shaped plug with no lip or spinners.

To walk the dog, cast the plug past any spot that holds underwater stumps, brush or some other type of heavy cover. When the bait hits the water, let it sit until all the ripples from the splashdown settle.

Then, after everything has gotten perfectly still, start bringing the bait back toward you with short, six-inch jerks of the rod tip while you reel slowly and steadily. The bait will stop around as a result of the short jerks. After the bait stops, it will be facing left and then, after the bait is pulled quickly ends to face right, over and over all the way through the strike zone.

This technique makes the plug resemble the flopping of a roving minnow on top of the water. It's one of the best methods there is for catching big fish and it's used by the pros along the Red Man Tournament Trail.

When you feel sure there is a fish at a certain spot—maybe you've had a fish roll at the lure and miss—work the plug up to the spot again and stop it dead in the water. Use a half jerk here, and I'm telling you, the bass just won't be able to stand it. That little jerk is what I call pulling the dying quiver on the plug, and it's really enticing to bass.

Fishing on Lake Cumberland in eastern Kentucky, the tournament anglers and I were able to catch five fish in the seven-pound class in two days by walking the dog up to stumps and stopping it. The quiver will really bring bass up.

If topwater fishing looks right, remember to try walking the dog when you're competing on the Red Man Tournament Trail. Until next time, this is Ron Shearer.

Wilderness survival skills learned from Apache Indian

When he was 20, Tom Brown entered New Jersey's Pine Barrens with nothing but desire, curiosity, intuition, and survival skills he learned from an Apache Indian.

He lived in the woods for a year, making clothes from bark fiber, shelter out of leaves, tools from stones and bones, and a believer out of himself, according to the current issue of 'National Wildlife' magazine.

Brown now runs a wilderness school, teaching 2,000 people a year how to survive in the outdoors. He also tracks lost hikers and fugitives, and teaches police officers and rescue crews how to track.

When Brown stepped naked into the Pine Barrens, a desolate place the size of Yosemite National Park, he was fulfilling a childhood dream at the age of 21.

"I wanted to test myself completely," he said in National Wildlife, published by the National Wildlife Federation. "I've been thinking of it ever since I'd learned, as a child, that Indian scouts frequently spent a year alone in the wilderness."

Brown grew up near the Pine Barrens and began learning about the woods at age seven. His teacher was an 83-year-old Apache Indian who lived with and taught Tom about survival for nine years before returning to his home in New Mexico.

As a sort of final exam, the Indian took Brown to a path made by an animal and asked him to read it.

"I said it was made by a two-year-old female coyote, weighing 25 pounds, carrying a rabbit in the left side of her mouth; and that an old injury to her right rear leg—probably she had been hit by a car—was causing her to put her weight more on her inner three toes," Brown recalled.

That kind of knowledge aided Brown in his time in the Barrens. His first shelter was a hut of leaves he built on a pole frame. He wove cedar bark fibers into a loin cloth and ate edible plants. He used an ancient Indian weapon, a short, heavy stick buried with great accuracy to catch animals. He skinned rabbits with a tool known as an eolith, a sharpened stone.

Brown's Indian teacher had made Brown spend two weekends a year blindfolded in the woods, an experience that paid off one winter day when Brown became snowblind. He now teaches his student how to survive "blind."

Brown also teaches students how to create a fire, improvise animal traps, make bows and arrows, chip arrowheads and create wilderness shelters.

Not everyone has to take Brown's class to get the most out of a trip to the woods. Brown has some suggestions for outings:

—Don't worry about setting a schedule that must be followed when going for a walk, take your time.

—Do something different, take a new path, lie down, look up into the trees instead of down at the ground, look into dark places.

—Know where and when to look, wildlife concentrate in transition areas, the edges of forests, fields and streams, at night and before and after storms.

—To hide your scent from animals try bathing with a natural soap. You can also rub your clothing and exposed parts of your body with pine needles, catnip or any other aromatic herb.

MSU among recipients of quail research funds

In the second year of its research grant-in-aid program, the International Quail Foundation received requests totaling $107,220 for quail research from various colleges and universities.

According to Tom Rodgers, director of the foundation, "We are receiving grant requests faster than we can find funding for them."

Rodgers, further stated that he was pleased with the renewed interest in quail and quail research that the foundation has fostered in developing the Quail Conservation Movement.

But he warned, "It took a long time to reduce quail populations to their current level and it will take a long time to reverse the trend."

Research grants tentatively approved by the foundation total $47,814, in 1984.

These projects cover a wide spectrum of topics including quail behavior, nutrition, parasites, habitat utilization, land use effects and pesticides.

The University of Tennessee, Southern Illinois University, Mississippi State University, Texas A&I University, North Carolina State University and the Oklahoma Cooperative Wildlife Research Unit were the recipients of IQF's 1984 grants.

The remainder of the 1984 funding has been reserved for educational programs including the publication of two quail management books and the continued distribution of the Foundation's bi-monthly newsletter Covey Rise.

The total quail research and educational budget for 1984 exceeds $100,814.

The International Quail Foundation, a non-profit organization, reports selection of Maynard Reece's painting, Bobwhite Quail, as its third annual Quail Research Stamp Print. Reece, an internationally renowned wildlife artist, has gained prominence through his watercolor paintings but is also considered a premier quail artist.

The signed and numbered quail print by Reece follows designs by Owen Groome and David Maass. The series, which began in 1982, is now recognized as the nation's number one conservation organization stamp-print collection.

Edition size of the 1984 print is 3900, with only 50,000 stamps issued. Feb. 15, 1984 was established as the release date for first day covers and souvenir cards.

Bobwhite Quail has an image size of 8 1/2 by 9 inches and is available for $130 from the foundation or a local art dealer. Single stamps are $5 each, with $20 for plate blocks and $50 per sheet of 10 stamps.

IQF prints and stamps are voluntarily purchased by sportsmen and collectors to help bring about a halt to the continued decline of America's quail populations, because of the success of the stamp-print program, the Foundation has provided over $150,000 in research grants to colleges and universities and educational projects in the last two years.

For more information write: IQF, P.O. Box 550, Edgefield, S.C. 29824-0550 or phone 803-637-3169.

Daddy Had a Little Boy
Daddy had a little boy
His soul was white as snow
He came over to Sunday school
Cause Daddy wouldn't go
He never heard the Word of God
That thrills the childish mind
While other children went to class
This child was left behind
As he grew from babe to youth
Dad saw to his dismay
A soul that once was merry white
Become a dark grey
Dad then started back to church
And Bible study, too
He begged the pastor, "I ain't here
A thing that you can do"
The preacher tried and tried, and said
"We're just too far behind
I tried to tell you years ago
But you would pay no mind
And so another soul was lost
That once was white as snow
Sunday school would have been
But Daddy wouldn't go"

Dear Dad,
Will you take me to
Sunday School?

ETV Brief

SHELL SHOCK

The acclaimed "To Serve Them All My Days," a dramatization of R.F. Deaderfield's work, will be rebroadcast on "Masterpiece Theatre" at 8 p.m. Sundays, beginning June 17, on Mississippi Educational Television. It was first seen on ETV in fall 1983.

The story involves David Powelett-Jones (played by John Duttine), a young Welsh soldier, who, suffering from shell shock, leaves the English army and begins a new life as a teacher in a boys' school. Plagued by recurring nightmares in which he relives the horrors of World War I, he regains the position of "headmaster" of the school. The story is a touching and powerful one, which anyone who has been through a traumatic experience can relate to.

PVT PETERSON
Pvt. Richard E. Peterson Jr., son of Elaine M. and Richard E. Peterson of 107 Locust Lane, Pass Christian, has completed one station unit training (OSUT) at the U.S. Army Infantry School, Fort Benning, Ga. OSUT is a 12-week period which combines basic combat training and advanced individual training. The training included weapons qualifications, squad tactics, patrolling, landmine warfare, field communications and combat operations. Completion of this course qualifies the soldier as a light-weapons infantryman and as an indirect-fire crewman. Soldiers were taught to perform any of the duties in a rifle or mortar squad. He is a 1982 graduate of Silverdale Senior High School, Minn.

Coast spellers vie in district event

By NANCY EHREBRIGHT

Some 200 top spellers from 16 schools participated in the recent Gulf Coast Spelling Bee sponsored by the Hancock County and the Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School Districts.

Participating schools included Hancock County and Bay City schools; Bay Catholic Elementary School, Christ Episcopal Day School and St. Stanislaus, all in Bay St. Louis; St. Clare Catholic School in Waveland; Annunciation Catholic School in Kiln; Pass Christian municipal schools, St. Paul's Catholic School and Coast Episcopal High School, all of Pass Christian; Also, Gulfport municipal schools and Harrison County schools; Ocean Springs municipal schools, Ocean Springs Christian School and St. Martin East Elementary School, all in Ocean Springs; and St. Thomas Catholic School in Long Beach.

Prior to the Gulf Coast district contest, each participating school district held local contests to determine its two district contestants per grade level in grades one through eight.

The first and second place winners at the Gulf Coast Spelling Bee are, respectively:

—First grade—Brooks Hubbert of Gulfport municipal schools and Shane Donovan of Ocean Springs Christian School.

—Second grade—Jeneen Metz of Ocean Springs Christian School and Danielle

Gobert of Christ Episcopal Day School.

—Third grade—Ben McAnally of Ocean Springs Christian School and James Lowery of St. Martin East Elementary School.

—Fourth grade—Jennifer Moore of Harrison County schools and Alyson Cousins of St. Thomas Catholic School.

—Fifth grade—Ted Ross of Christ Episcopal Day School and Jason Stone of Ocean Springs municipal schools.

—Sixth grade—Robin Ladner of Pass Christian municipal schools and Peggy Land of Ocean Springs municipal schools.

—Seventh grade—Gladys Hamilton of Harrison County schools and Rosalyn Bourn of Bay St. Louis municipal schools.

—Eighth grade—Derick Thurman of Ocean Springs municipal schools and Kerri Laralrie of Harrison County schools.

Judges for the district contest included Freda Cameron, Brother Paul Mulligan, Katherine Pair, Iva Mae McDonald, Emily deMontluzin, Ada Whitfield, Lambert Boyd, Dootie Murphy, Undine Thomas, Rebekah Kennedy, Jeannette Handshoe and Mary Jo Krueck.

Gertrude Stanton, Prima Wusnick and Lamar Jordan served as pronouncers.

Helen Mestayer, Chapter I coordinator for Hancock County School District, coordinated this year's district spelling bee.

Additional subject awards were Speech, Karen Mayfield; Drama, Sonya Jordan; Journalism, Mark McLaughlin; Yearbook, Tina Banks; Clothing, Gwen Ladner; Child Development, Donna Lee; Parenting, Donna Zulli; Family Living, Ann Parker; Food, Wendy Carver; and Independent Living, April Strief.

Also included were Spanish I, Skipper Stierwald; Spanish II, Caprice Doby; French I, Bridget Stockstill; Library, Paula Manale; World History, Janice Eubank; United States History, Rance Necaise; American Government, Paula Gaudin and Bubba Smith; Economics, Lorraine Collier and Danita Ladner; Psychology, Karen Seal; Sociology, Paula Manale; and Seminar, Paula Gaudin.

Selection for Star Student is based on American College Test scores. This year's Star Student was Paula Gaudin.

The Star Student then selected as Star Teacher the person who made the greatest contribution to her scholastic achievement, Mrs. Myrna Gregory.

The following students have had perfect attendance:

10th Grade—Roberta Adams, Robin Cameron, Wendy Carver, Jacob Dupree, Catherine Forrest, Steven Greenfield, Kendra Ladner, Shannon Malley and Deanna Tynes.

11th Grade—Roy Cuevas, Carol Jordan, Byron Ladner, Denise Mendoza, Pamela Necaise and Lea O'Hara.

12th Grade—Cynthia Dean and Brian Ladner.

The Century III Leader Award, given to the student who demonstrates knowledge of current world affairs based on a written paper and a quiz, was awarded to Mark McLaughlin.

School reporter to the Piquette Item and The Sea Coast Echo, Rance Necaise, was also recognized.

The Bausch and Lomb Honorary Science Award is based on achievement in science and was presented to Kathy Necaise.

Woman of the World Insurance awarded a trophy for scholastic achievement in social studies to Rance Necaise.

The following students were recognized representing HNC in math and science tournaments at Mississippi College in Clinton and at Xavier University in New Orleans: Patti Moran, Melissa Evert, Kathy Necaise, Paula Gaudin, Lisa Lee, Margo Prestenbach, Tanya Sullik, Rance Necaise and Roy Cuevas.

Recipients of an award from the Black Achievers Program in Jackson were Lyndell Curry and Bridget Hall.

Rance Necaise was recognized for his efforts on behalf of the Student Council to publish a twenty-fifth commemorative book of the school's history.

Girl's State is sponsored by the American Legion Ladies Auxiliary to allow students to participate in the democratic process of government. Selected to represent the school at Girl's State were Lisa Lee, Tanya Sullik, Melissa Alme and Dujuan Griffin.

Rance Necaise and Roy Necaise were selected for American Legion Boy's State. This year's Governor's Scholar was April Strief.

Future Business Leaders of America participated in the District Contest held at Jones Junior College where Patti Moran won in business math. She also represented the school in state competition.

Awards in scholarship were presented to the student who maintained the highest grade point average for each class. Recipients included

The faculty chose Deron Cuevas as recipient of the Service Award for dependability, cooperation and congeniality.

McLEAN COLLECTION

A collection of the works of former Tupelo Daily Journal owner and Winona native, the late George McLean, has been donated to the University of Mississippi's John Davis Williams Library by his wife, Mrs. Anna Kelsey McLean.

The collection of speeches, letters, file material and tapes will be housed in the archives room of the library, according to Dr. Vaughn Grisham, associate professor of sociology at Ole Miss, who obtained the documents.

"The papers contain very detailed ideas on his community development, human motivation, economic development of the area, management and religion," said Dr. Grisham.

McLean, the son of a plantation owner and judge, had strong family ties to Ole Miss. Dr. Grisham said. McLean's aunt, Elma Meek, was originator of the name "Ole Miss."

McLean bought the Tupelo Daily Journal in 1934 and was owner, publisher, and sometimes editor of the newspaper until his death March 1, 1983.

At age 34, McLean was the youngest man ever chosen as Outstanding Citizen in the Nation by Nation Magazine in 1938. He was picked as Man of the Year in 1948 by Progressive Farmer Magazine.

In 1954 the U.S. Department of Agriculture adopted McLean's model of rural community as the national model. He was selected by the Tennessee Valley Authority (TVA) in 1981 as the Outstanding Citizen in the South, and last year was awarded the Outstanding Educator Award by the American Library Trustees Association.
